Keith's—Vaudeville.

With Nora Bayes at Keith's yesterday, you may be sure that things a plenty happened, for clever Nora never fails to "put over" a quip and coulbble, and land a few parlands with gayety and gusto. She sings "the songs you love" this week, accompanied by her soldier boy, Irving l'isher, with all the easy assurance and good nature that have characterized her, and created a patriotic fervor with George Cohan's song "over there," which should result in many recruits for the army this week. There was no questioning the warmth of her welcome!

While the return of Nora Bayes was undoubtedly the notable event which drew capacity audiences to the Washington palace of vaudevile yesterday, she is only one of the many good things on the overflowing menu. Leona La Mar is a charming siri, gifted with a sixth sense. She knows everyone's business better than they do themselves, and tells it Keith's-Vaudeville.

The various Jewish types were ably portrayed by each and every member of the company. Robert Fraser, the popular leading man of the company, in the role of Mawruss Perlmutter, arried off the comedy honors closely followed by J. Hammond Dailey, as Abe Potash.

These two partners personified the laughable characters which have been made famous by Glass in his stories in the Saturday Evening Post.

Howard Lang as Marks Pasinsky, contributed a good bit to the fun of the evening, and Russell Fillmore, as Boris Andrieff, served to complicate the plot of the piece, by his Russian entanglements.

Others of the company who deserve Moore's Strand. Best in the results of partners and Rudolph de Cordoba.

Others of the company who deserve particular mention for their work last night, are: Frances Williams, Oille Cooper, George Carleton, Craig Ward, Cushin Remley, Hardle Meakin, Guy Harper and Louise Farnum.

Moore's Strand—Beatrize Michelena, Reatrize Michelena, remembered by Washingtonians by reason of her operatic triumphs, despite the heat yesteriay, drew large crowds to Moore's Strand Theater, where she appeared in a filmization of "The operatic triumphs, despite the heat vesteriary, drew large crowds to Moore's Strand Theater, where she appeared in a filmization of "The Woman Who Dared." adapted from the novel by A. C. and N. Williamson. The story is that of a woman, who, although essentially feminine and human in her femininity, matches her wits against the keenest minds of diplomatic Europe and wins. There is a big love theme involving a struggle between the sense of duty to one's country and a woman's love for a

At a meeting of Troop 22, Boy Scouts, held in the parish hall of the Church of the Epiphany last evening, Gen. John L. Clem, U. S. A., presented a large and beautiful American flag. Another flag was presented by Col. G. B. Young, D. C. N. G. This was a troop flag.

A malted milk dispensing machine has been designed for soda fountains which discharges a carefully measured amount of powdered milk at each operation, thus preventing waste and at the same time serving as a sanitary container. The upper part of the apparatus constitutes a hopper in which the supply of material is kept. By pressing down a lever projecting from the side of the machine the desired amount of powder is discharged from a measuring device into the glass placed to receive it. This measuring device can be set for any orb of eight differant sweeping and mopping in the correct when Whistle Blown by Soda-Water Gas.

A little town of Southern Oregon, Ashland by name, claims the distinction of possessing the only fire alarm in the United States—probably the only one in the world—operated by carbonic acid gas, the kind familiarly used in soda water. The town alarm, formerly a bell, is now a whistle and it is blown by gas pumped into the town from a distant well under heavy pressure, to make an effervescent water. A two-inch pipe connects the gas line with the whistle on top of the fire hall, and the former bell rope is used to operate a valve which admits the compressed gas to the whistle when its alarm is required.—Popular Mechanics.

BY DEFENSE LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Home Defense League of the Seventh precinct, held hist evening. R. P. Andrews, president, prophesied that the organization would never be disbanded. He announced that this unit, which already has a membership of 160, will drill two hours two nights each week, and that during these drills they will study every nook and corner of their precinct.

Odell S. Smith refered to the draft riots experienced in New York in 1863, and said that the home guard would be of great service here in the event of any draft trouble.

Major Pullman also spoke, saying
